Robertson Quay's Latest Gourmet Hot-spot The Pier at Robertson – An Urban Chic Gastronomic Experience

Epicureans in Singapore will soon be flocking to the latest gourmet hot-spot in town. City Developments Limited's (CDL) newest mixed development along the Singapore River, The Pier at Robertson, will house some of the finest gastronomic names and present new exciting urban lifestyle concepts. Expect some established names and overseas restaurateurs making waves along the river.

Robertson Quay may be known for its trendy clubs and pubs, but as more hip urbanites move into the upmarket residential developments in the vicinity, it is transforming into a cool nightspot not just for the party crowd but also for discerning diners.

It is with good timing that CDL has assembled a distinguished group of culinary experts to present a repertoire ranging from fine-dining and ethnic Asian cuisine to niche victuals to complement the refined tastes of the residents at The Pier at Robertson and those in the neighbourhood.

Dine al fresco style and soak in the relaxing ambience of the Singapore River and be a part of the vibrant and energetic scene. This is the place to see and be seen at.

Brasserie at The Pier

A brasserie by Wolfgang Lapper to be re-created and bring back memories of the old brasserie at Marco Polo where you can dine in a chic yet casual setting that comes equipped with an open kitchen. Be enchanted by authentic French home-style cuisine so rarely found these days as well as other classical favourites and treat yourself to the wide and impeccable selection of French wine.

Robotaya Yoyogi

Direct from Hokkaido, Japan, be one of the first in Singapore to enjoy traditional country cooking known as "Robotaya". You will find the freshest seafood, meats and vegetables grilled to perfection on an open hearth right in front of you. In a rustic wood setting that replicates the ambience of a wholesale market, these delicacies are best accompanied with Sake or Shochu, a Japanese vodka. This will be a dining experience not to be missed.

The Chocolate Factory

Designed with chocoholics in mind, The Chocolate Factory is not just a café that will satisfy your chocolate cravings, but it is also a place where you can partake in chocolate-tasting sessions. Take a cooking class, pick up the best quality chocolate confectionary or just enjoy the chefs at work at the open-concept kitchen. This will be a place loved by kids and adults alike.

TCC – The Coffee Connoisseur

A boutique art café that is one of the leading purveyors of gourmet coffee in Singapore showcasing an extensive range of top-quality coffees, brewed to perfection using a variety of methods. Diners may relax in the cosy surrounding whilst sipping their freshly brewed beverage and appreciating the artworks on display.

Tasting Notes

Consummate wine aficionados can find some 200 wine labels from their favourite vineyards and discover new ones. Sommelier services are available on site should you like a recommendation to suit your occasion and palate. Not just a retail wine boutique, you may also enjoy your selection on site with delectable snack offerings.

La Maison Du Whisky

From France, La Maison Du Whisky, the only whisky specialist in Singapore, will be opening its flagship store at The Pier at Robertson. With an astounding selection of 1,000 different types of whisky from France, Scotland, Wales, America, Japan and India, you will find a full spectrum of whisky - single malts, single grain, blended malts, bourbon, ryes and Tennessee. Special collector's items and a choice of tasting glasses, flasks and books are also available for whisky lovers.

Tenants are expected to open their doors in the middle of the year. With the added variety, dining at Robertson Quay along the riverside will be a new and exciting experience.
